

RITE NOW @ ROP

Leadership skills are among the most important “soft-skills” that can lead to professional and personal success. Programs like the Junior Reserve Officers’ Training Corps (JROTC) help youth develop these skills through practice, and unique program opportunities inspired by military traditions. For 100 years JROTC has partnered with high schools nationwide to carry out its mission of instilling the value of citizenship, service to the United States, personal responsibility, and a sense of accomplishment.

Silver Oak Academy’s “Strike Force” team is a proud part of JROTC’s long legacy and works to promote these values, traditions and skills through normalized JROTC activities with cadets from other programs in and around Carroll County. This year, the SOA cadets participated in the 2016 Military Ball sponsored by Gettysburg High School.

At the ball, SOA cadets participated in cadence drills, marching and a ceremonial toast, which was followed by dinner and dancing. The students embraced JROTC’s key leadership skills in their interactions with cadets, on the dance floor and with their superiors, demonstrating their readiness to become tomorrow’s leaders.
